NEW Free Water-Wise Survey for businesses

The City of San Diego offers free Water-Wise Surveys to its commercial, industrial and institutional customers. The on-site survey includes a customized review of indoor water use, identification of areas where water can be used more efficiently, and a cost analysis of the suggested enhancements.

How is a Water-Wise Survey performed?

A representative from the City's Public Utilities Department will:

- Schedule an appointment to meet with you at the site.
- Provide meter reading instructions.
- Review historic water usage.
- Check water-using equipment for leaks and gallons per minute rates.
- Provide information on water-saving devices eligible for incentives.
- Prepare a follow-up report with:
 - Recommended equipment upgrades
 - Water management improvements
 - Applicable rebate incentive opportunities
 - Cost/benefit analysis, payback periods for recommended enhancements

A Water-Wise Survey can help your business reduce:

- Water consumption.
- Wastewater discharge.
- Energy usage.
- The amount of the utility bill.

How do you participate?

Your participation in the Water-Wise Survey includes setting some time aside to meet with City representatives to discuss your water-using processes and practices, to provide a brief tour of the parts of your facility where water is used, and to be available to answer follow-up questions for us to complete your customized Water-Wise Survey report.

A little time now will reap financial benefits for years to come.

Most surveys take less than one hour to complete. Implementation of the cost-effective recommendations is encouraged, and in many cases, the upgrades are eligible for rebates.
